

vast majority. Opposition to the President is deemed before it is fairly started."

Have you consulted any of the Democratic Senators who voted for the Lodge reservations to the peace treaty as to their attitude toward the Virginia league plank?" Mr. Cummings was asked.

"It is not necessary," he replied. "I know what their attitude would be. There has never been any substantial opposition to the treaty among the Democrats of the Senate."

Mr. Cummings waved aside the statement that at least twelve Democratic Senators were vigorously opposed to ratification of the treaty with the understanding that the President considered nullifying, adding that if the Democrats won the election the treaty would be ratified, and if the Republicans won the treaty would be rejected.

"Can you say that the Republican treaty plank commits the party to defeat of the treaty?" Chairman Cummings was asked.

"You must judge a man and a party by acts as well as words," he replied.

"How about the fact that Harding voted to ratify the treaty with reservations?"

"If there is a conflict between the candidates and the platform that raises another complication," he said.

Bryan Is Not Considered

Which left the newspaper men a little confused as to the difference between honest and dishonest conventions in the mind of Mr. Cummings, and also his mental distinction about the peace treaty, but none whatever as to the thought would happen to Mr. Bryan.

"Whether Bryan makes a fight or not," Cummings continued by way of clearing this already bright point up a little further, "does not make any difference. It is a waste of time to debate what Bryan is going to do or how many will stand with him."

When asked if the President would have any personal representative at the convention, Mr. Cummings said he thought not, but added that he would be fully advised as to the President's wish.

Refusal to consider disagreements seems to be the normal situation here. McAdoo has been unable apparently to remove himself as a candidate.

Mr. Cummings made it quite clear that not only is Secretary of State Colby to be permanent chairman of the convention, despite his statement that he is not even a "prospective" candidate, but that Colby is now writing his speech, as a result of telegrams sent to Colby by Cummings. This statement in view of the fact that very few delegates have arrived, also was a surprise to observers in connection with the statement that this is an unbroken and untrammelled convention.

Smith and Murphy Arrive in Chicago

Make Slight Comment on McAdoo's Statement: Call It Everybody's Race

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

CHICAGO, June 19.—The first thing that was brought to the attention of Senator Alfred E. Smith of New York and "Boss" Charles F. Murphy of Tammany when they arrived in Chicago today, on their way to the Democratic National Convention from French Lick, was a news dispatch telling of William G. McAdoo's withdrawal from the Presidential race. The joy that the two must have felt was not visible on the countenances of either.

"Mr. McAdoo says so I see, that a poor man can't run for President," commented Murphy. "Well, that's all I've got to say."

"He doesn't leave any doubt as to all about being out of the race," asserted Governor Smith, as he sat opposite the Tammany chief in his suite in the Hotel Hamilton. Then both quickly changed the subject.

"Has New York a candidate for the nomination?" the Governor was asked.

"No, not yet," he replied.

"Is there any possibility of Wilson running a third term?"

"That is something that nobody can tell."

When asked if McAdoo's withdrawal opened the way for the possible nomination of President Wilson, the Governor said:

"Nobody can tell until everybody gets out to San Francisco. It looks as if this is going to be a regular convention Democratic convention and everybody's race who can muster enough delegates. Moreover I haven't heard of any move to elect Wilson as a compromise and substitute a majority vote as sufficient for the nomination."

Both Governor Smith and Mr. Murphy refused to discuss the plan of the Illinois Democratic delegation to strongly for the principle of every state's right to decide for itself how much alcohol in beer and wine shall constitute a violation of the prohibition amendment.

Governor Smith spent the greater part of the day entertaining the Democratic leaders who called on him. This time was entirely devoted to talking the cold scores, which seemed to absorb every one.

The Governor and the Tammany chief are the first of a long string of Democrats who are scheduled to pass through here tonight and tomorrow on their way to the convention.

Deny Conference in Chicago

It was expected that the New York delegates would hold a conference with the Illinois delegates some time tonight or tomorrow. This has been denied on both sides, however. Anyway it is known that the New York and Illinois delegates will leave together tomorrow night for San Francisco.

The New Yorkers arrived early from a week's stopover in French Lick Springs, where many important conferences were held. They say, however, that they kept the caddies busy and "gave them the merry chase they usually give politicians." With the General, Charles W. Barry, of New York; John A. Lister, of New York; and Charles M. Winchester, president of the Albany Chamber of Commerce, and William A. Humphrey, Chief of Police of Albany, Governor Smith and his son met the women of the party on their arrival.

to-night from New York and escorted them from their train to a hotel. Among the arrivals were Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Murphy, Miss Emily Smith and Mrs. John A. Lister, wife of the Mayor of New York. Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon and Surrogate James A. Foley also arrived.

Thomas Taggart, leader of the Indiana delegation, will join the other Democratic leaders here tomorrow.

All of the Chicago and Illinois delegates to the convention who have not yet departed will start for San Francisco at the same time as the New Yorkers with the exception of former Governor Dunne, former Mayor Harrison, Representative Smith and Forriston, County Treasurer O'Connell, who departed to-night.

The special train for the Illinois delegation has been termed the "Brennan Special," in honor of George E. Brennan, chairman of the fifty-eight Illinois delegates. The Brennan special will arrive in San Francisco Thursday.

This was the gist of an announcement made to-day by F. E. Sullivan, secretary of the Chicago McAdoo club.

"McAdoo's statement does not in any way change the attitude of Democrats in Chicago and throughout the country who want him for President," Mr. Sullivan said. "That is the attitude we have taken, the position of not being an active candidate."

A meeting of the local McAdoo organization with some one hundred members present was held last night at the Hotel Hamilton. A telegram was sent to Mr. McAdoo announcing that his followers here would continue to support him.

Kansas City District Renames Jim Reed

Delegation Re-elects Senator After His Rejection by the State Convention

KANSAS CITY, June 19.—United States Senator James A. Reed, today was re-elected to represent the Fifth Missouri (Kansas City) District at the Democratic National Convention in San Francisco. The district delegates re-elected Senator Reed, after he had been rejected by the state convention which ordered the district to name another delegate.

The action of the district delegation in re-electing Senator Reed as delegate and J. T. Bradshaw as alternate will be certified to the Democratic State Central Committee, State Senator M. E. Casey stated, with a request that the national convention be officially informed of the action taken here to-day.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 19.—Approximately 130 persons left Indianapolis at 2 o'clock this afternoon on the Indiana Democratic Club special to attend the Democratic National Convention at San Francisco.

BOSTON, June 19.—The Maine delegation to the Democratic National Convention at San Francisco left here today. The party numbered twenty. The Massachusetts delegation will leave in three parties during the next day or two.

Colby Not Even Receptive Candidate for Chairman

Reports Linking His Name With the Presiding Officer Without Foundation. He Declares

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Bainbridge Colby, in a statement to-day, declared that he was not even "a receptive candidate" for permanent chairman of the Democratic National Convention.

Mr. Colby said:

"The report persists that I am to be permanent chairman of the Democratic convention. This report has no foundation. The organization of the convention and the choice of its officers are matters which the convention itself will decide."

"I am not even a receptive candidate for the position of permanent chairman. There are many members of the party who are much more qualified than I for the position, and who richly deserve any honor in their gift. I am going to the convention with no other thought than to cooperate heartily with my fellow delegates from the District of Columbia and to participate in the deliberations of the convention modestly and I hope helpfully."

"I shall leave at the last possible moment and return to my duties in Washington the moment the convention adjourns."

Secretary Daniels left tonight for San Francisco. Assistant Secretary Roosevelt will leave New York to-night as a delegate from that state.

Doubts Third-Term Talk

Lansing Does Not Believe Wilson Will Be Candidate

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

WATERTOWN, N. Y., June 19.—"I cannot believe that President Wilson will be a candidate for a third term," said Robert Lansing, former Secretary of State, at his summer home at Henderson Harbor to-day.

Mr. Lansing, accompanied by Mrs. Lansing, arrived here to-day, having returned from Washington. He intends to spend three months at his summer home on Lake Ontario.

Mr. Lansing said the refusal of William G. McAdoo to permit his name to go before the Democratic National Convention is "extremely interesting. It is, however, perfectly consistent with the attitude he has maintained."

Asked if the published report that the Democratic party may draft him to run for United States Senator against Senator James W. Wadsworth, Mr. Lansing shook his head in the negative and replied, "It does not interest me."

All of Democratic Delegates Chosen; 775 Are Uninstructed

McAdoo Leads With 84, Palmer Is Second With 76 and Cox Third With 74 Among Total of 1,096; Mississippi, Utah, Idaho Last to Make Selections

Wednesday's convention of the Democratic State Committee of Mississippi, when it chose twenty uninstructed delegates to the San Francisco convention, rounded out the labors of the states in complying with the call of the Democratic National Committee.

On the two previous days Utah and Idaho Democrats met in state convention and selected eight delegates each, also uninstructed.

This makes 775 uninstructed delegates to the Democratic National Convention, which meets in San Francisco on June 28. The remainder, 321, are divided among nine candidates, McAdoo leading, with 84 pledged.

Where these delegates will go, in view of McAdoo's withdrawal from the race, is a problem. Pennsylvania's delegation, 76 strong, places Palmer second in the list of those having instructed delegations. Cox, with the Ohio and Kansas delegations, looms a close third, with 74.

The table shows the line-up of the Democratic delegates:

Admission will cost Georgia delegation, below state convention instructed delegates for E. T. Meredith. They will be for McAdoo after first ballot.

Maine and Minnesota claimed by Palmer.

North Dakota voters expressed preference for Bryan; delegates instructed under law to follow preference of voters, as far as possible.

United States Senator Simmons endorsed as favorite son, subject to approval of preferential primary, but delegates certain to be for McAdoo.

Foreign delegation not specifically instructed, but McAdoo's name was only one on ballot.

Virginia delegates instructed for Senator Glass, but they are counted as being for McAdoo after the first ballot.

Florida delegation claimed by Edwards.

Palmer Issues Warning On Selling Agreements Dealers Are Told Even Oral Contracts to Maintain Prices Are Illegal

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Warning that agreements between manufacturers and dealers which prevent dealers from reducing the selling prices of manufactured articles is unlawful was sounded to-day by the department of Justice as part of its campaign to lower the cost of living.

Indictments recently were obtained against the Cate Company, Attorney General Palmer stated, charging criminal violations of the Sherman act for procuring agreements with dealers to adhere to fixed resale prices.

Absence of formal contracts will not avoid the provisions of the law, according to the Attorney General, as in the Colgate case the agreements in some instances consisted in the exchange of letters or in purely oral conversations.

General reduction in prices is expected by officials of the department as a result of the clear definition of the law, as it is said that many merchants have been unable to cooperate in the campaign to lower living costs because of the fixed prices on certain manufactured articles.

U. S. Crews Reach England

PLYMOUTH, England, June 19.—The crews of the Union Boat Club of Boston entered for the English Royal Henly regatta, have arrived here. They hope to appear on the Thames tomorrow.

Tammany Fears Wilson Will Seek 3d Term

Leaders on Special Train to Convention Prepared to Fight Against Nomination of the President

McAdoo Seen Available

Not Decided When New York's 90 Votes Are To Be Delivered to Cox

From a Staff Correspondent

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col. June 19.—(On board the Tammany Hall special train, en route to San Francisco.)—Tammany leaders on their way to the Democratic National Convention, after showing their pleasure over the fact that William G. McAdoo has refused to become a candidate for President, now are beginning to show fear that with McAdoo out of the race they may be forced to prevent President Wilson from obtaining the nomination for a third term.

The President's statement of Friday, in which he said: "I have not raised my hand or voice to aid in the promotion of any candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination, and I shall not do so," is regarded by Tammany leaders on the official train as an open bid for a renomination. Tammany had believed that the President would support the McAdoo candidacy until the President's and McAdoo's statements were published.

The impression among the New York delegates is that the President's name will be placed before the convention. If that is done, Tammany is prepared to lead the fight against the President.

McAdoo Believed Available

Not all of the Tammany delegates regard McAdoo's statement as a withdrawal of his candidacy. They said, after reading the statement, that McAdoo only announced that he was not an active candidate, and that he was placed himself in a position to be "forced" to accept the nomination.

Representative Thomas E. Smith, who is leading the Tammany delegates who are on this train, told the following story in discussing the McAdoo statement:

There was a Kentucky Colonel who signed the pledge, but who stocked his cellar with whisky just before the country went dry. His wife asked him what he wanted with all of that liquor.

"This is for medicinal purposes," the Colonel replied. "If I get sick, I'm sure to get some, and if I won't take it, I'll make me."

McAdoo's statement has helped Tammany in one way, however. Most of the New York delegates are strong supporters of McAdoo, and they left New York with the intention of preventing his nomination if possible.

There was some McAdoo sentiment in the delegation, though, but now the Tammany leaders believe that New York can give its united support to the candidacy of Governor James C. Cox, of Ohio, who has been the choice of most of the delegates. It has not been decided as yet just when the ninety New York votes will be thrown.

Cox, but Governor Smith will get "them on the first ballot."

Representative Smith received a telegram from Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Joseph House, late today, in which Mr. House said that, in view of Mr. Adoo's withdrawal, he was in favor of the nomination of Senator Glass, of Virginia. House asked Mr. Smith what he thought of Senator Glass's availability.

Mr. Smith said that he thought that evidently the McAdoo men believe that McAdoo really is out of it.

The Tammany train pulled into Denver at 7 o'clock this morning for a four-hour tour of the city. The en-

Barefoot Boycott on Shoes Is Urged Now

A scheme to lower at least one phase of the high cost of living has been devised by Charles R. Steele, of 93 Hawthorne Avenue, East Orange, N. J., an insurance broker.

He is trying to have the children of East Orange declare a boycott on shoes by going barefoot during the summer. This, he believes, will bring down the price of shoes.

Dr. Edwin C. Broome, superintendent of schools in that town, has indorsed the plan.

trance of Tammany into Denver was very much different from the tribe's last appearance there. This year only the 132 men and women who make up the party on this train quietly got into automobiles and drove around the city.

Denver, which remembered Tammany from 1908, scarcely knew that they had arrived. Twelve years ago 1,000 Tammany delegates and their friends endeavored the city with brass bands and a tribe of Indians at their head and marched to make war upon William J. Bryan.

The train left Denver at 11 o'clock this morning and reached Colorado Springs shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon. Most of the party took an automobile ride up Pike's Peak and the Garden of the Gods, and then had dinner at the Antlers Hotel.

Dayton Cheers as Cox Men Go to Convention

DAYTON, Ohio, June 19.—Dayton citizens and Ohio Democrats joined today in a community demonstration for Governor James M. Cox, Ohio's candidate for the Democratic nomination for President. The demonstration was a prelude to the departure of Ohio's delegation to the San Francisco convention, every one of whom is pledged to vote for the Governor.

Several thousand admirers of Governor Cox made the pilgrimage to the suburban home of the Governor, following a parade of political organizations through the business section of the city this afternoon.

At the Governor's home addresses were made by United States Senator Alice Longworth and former Governor James E. Campbell, delegates-at-large to the convention. Governor Cox responded by wishing the delegation a happy journey.

Members of the Ohio delegation and other Democratic leaders expressed gratification over the announcement by William G. McAdoo that he is not a candidate and that his name must not be presented to the convention. Governor Cox made no comment on Mr. McAdoo's statement.

Two special trains bearing the Ohio delegation and some 450 boosters were to leave at 8:30 o'clock to-night. The first stop will be made at Kansas City tomorrow afternoon, where special arrangements have been made for entertainment of the passengers. Two additional special trains with boosters for the Governor are scheduled to leave Columbus Monday night.

Wesleyan Faculty Voted 50 Per Cent Salary Increase

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., June 19.—Salary increases of about 50 per cent for members of the faculty of Wesleyan University were voted to-day by the board of trustees of the university, who met here in connection with the commencement activities. John Gribbel, of Philadelphia, was elected president of the board.

Mr. Gribbel succeeds John C. Clark, of New York, who resigned after serving several years. Among faculty appointments made by the trustees were Wallace F. Powers, of New York University, to be assistant professor of physics.
